This formation is the root and basis of Ba Gua (Pa Kua) and later the I-Ching, Book of Changes is based on Ba Gua concept.

2. Lok Shu Diagram 洛書

History of Lok Shu

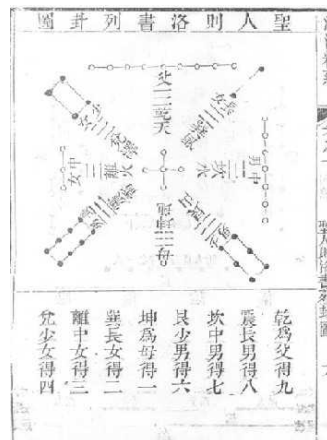

According to ancient Chinese legends, this formation of magic square has been around for nearly 4,000 years. This pattern of numbers appeared on a gigantic turtle shell in the River Lok (Lok Shu) and was discovered by Emperor Yu. The Emperor Yu then discovered the fascination pattern formation based on the circular dots of numbers that were arranged in a three by three nine-grid pattern. The total in any direction will add up to 15. The I-Ching, Book of Changes, Flying Star Theory and Chinese astrology are all based on this Lok Shu magic square.

(洛書 -載九履一，左三右七，二四爲肩，六八爲足者，洛書也)

Chapter 17

Politics by Ruler

The highest and best ruler is one whose meritorious effect is over the entire nation, yet it appears not to stem from him.

Next comes to one whom they love and raise.

Next comes to whom they fear because of punishment and reward.

Next comes to one they despise and defy because of his trick and rule without sincerity.

When ones does not command people with faith.

Some will lose faith in him.

So, a ruler must honour his promise.

On a success of work done people would say this was done naturally without knowing the effort of the ruler.

Chapter 18

Humanity and Filial Devotion

When the great TAO was abandoned,

Teaching of benevolence and righteousness* would arise.

With the appearance of knowledge and cleverness, great hypocrites would exist.

When the family relationship lost their harmony, there was praise of merciful parents and filial sons.

When chaos and bad rulers were rampant in a country, there was praise of loyal ministers.

*With TAO all persons are acting naturally. There is no need to have a code of ethics.

Chapter 19

Returning to pure simplicity

Disclaim to be a Sage and abandon wit,

And the people will be benefited a hundredfold.

Disclaim humanity** and justice,

And the people shall recover their innate qualities of filial devotion and kindness.

Banish cunning and profiteering,

There shall be no robbers and thieves.

The above 3 statements may not suffice to teach the people.

Therefore, I give the following enlightenment:

Cherishing simple and plain honesty,

Embracing one's original nature and discarding selfishness and wanton desires.

Disclaim: A true sage disclaims himself to be a sage. He teaches people with priority to return to Nature by finding their true selves. To abandon wit being plotted to satisfy one's wanton desire.

** Humanity: It should be one's innate quality and not to be utilized to win praise and justice hypocrisy.
