

I-Ching & The World of Metaphysics

Date: May 30th 9am
Objective: Dragon Point (Meridian Spot) Searching-2
Venue: San Ah Chuen, North East of Hong Kong 三極村
Person Involved: Master Lau and Kerby Kuek

The Northeast part of Hong Kong is scattered with small and unique villages and some spots even turned into famous mountain hiking trail for weekends out going hikers. It took us two hours to get into the famous 'Tiu Tang Long' which is the parent mountain for the slopping trail that formed the meridian spot. It branched out from the Parent Hill and formed a so-called dynamic curve that looked like this Chinese word “之”.

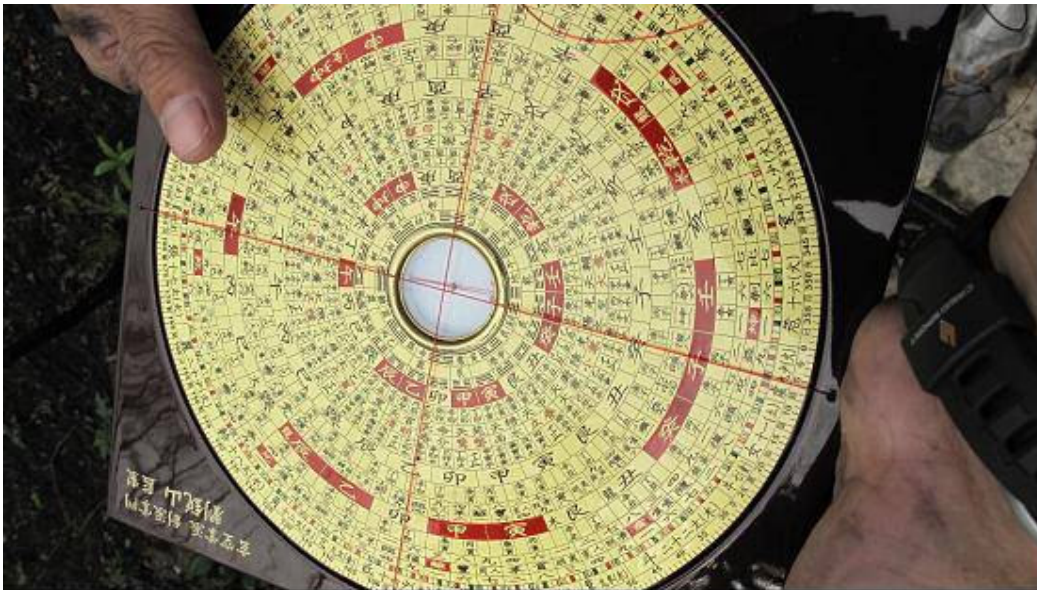

We followed the trail for approximate 45 minutes and thanks to the forest fire, otherwise it would take us another 2 hours to get there. The surrounding topography is typical left dragon, white tiger with lively and forceful energy that embracing the site neatly and tightly. It came to a point that a small 'bump' is located that form the meridian spot. We saw as an amazing scene with awe!

Such lively and force energy coupled with water element such spot is definitely close and Sifu pointed to the exact location and we found an ancient tombs but look,

Such site is tempered with a growing tree!! This is extremely inauspicious and we always trying to avoid seeing such scene! But wait we just mentioned that this is a real meridian spot what happens to the nice topographical form that we just mentioned? We then took out our Lo Kang (compass) and realized such tomb orientation has offended Pat Sak (八煞).

We then turned to next meridian spot and again we found an ancient tomb but with the same scene that a tree is growing out from the tomb, immediate diagnose was the site-orientation offended the 4 main directions impure energy (四正雜氣).

What a tiring trip!! But rewarding one!

The trail took us two hours to get into the real meridian spot! Although the process is long but not as challenging as the previous Dragon searching (see The Dragon searching Process 1). However due to the forestry fire we were able to get to the spot much quicker than we anticipated. Master Lau went in with white shirt (white horse) on the way the white horse has turned to Zebra and at the end of the searching he then turned into a Black Horse, this was due to the forestry fire that turned the bushes and trees into black sticks (see below for more picture)
