Hong Kong Feng Shui-part 1

Throughout years of experience learning from various masters and ancient books and scriptures, here are some practical and imperative points for readers who really want to know where the best places and environment to live and work!

Enter the Dragon of Hong Kong

In order for readers to understand the formation of a meridian point, we must first understand that the main trunk of dragon terrain or body is originated from Kun Lung Mountain or Himalayan and the Southern dragon ended in Hong Kong, The first dragon emerges via Shenzhen Wu Tong San in Hong Fa Leng, quite interestingly we found a unique and special tomb described in ancient text called 'Le San', this is this special and unique tomb is very rare in this world let alone in Hong Kong.

Wonder why HSBC is the best Site

HBSC is the focal point for 5-dragon breath; therefore harnessing of kind energies is unavoidebale. The 5 dragons are Victoria Peak, Lung Fu Shan, High West Hill, Mount Gough and Mount Kellet.

IFC versus Stock Exchange

Another point in Feng Shui is the stability of dragon breath. Exchange Square One and two are located in such a locale that would benefit in the long run due to that particular reason. Unlike IFC 1 and 2 that missed this point, therefore the current glory would only short live due to unstable dragon breath.

Wonder why Times Square so busy!

According to my knowledge no current books or Sifu out there did ever explain why Times Square is so busy and expensive! Here you go, you got the first insight. You often heard the jargons of left dragon, right tiger, rear Xuanwu, front zhuque (rose finch), but you never know what to do with them.

Here is the secret, once they are in line to form a 'cross', the best site can be found!

In this case you can draw a line of Victoria peak to Braemar Hill and Mount Nicholson and Beacon Hill. Get it!

The Route that matter

Ever wonders how Japanese topple British Troops during Second World War? The route to Stanley Gap where the Japanese figured out the British main command site was through Jardine lookout Quarry mining field. This is significant route that perished the Brits.

The Ideal Feng Shui place to Live

Well, many would disagree with me but what the heck! Hong Kong Park View is the best place to live. This is rather significant since Jardine Lookout, Violet Hill and Wong Nai Chung Gap provide a good support for Hong Kong Park View! Such site is able to harness kind energy permeated.

The Ideal Feng Shui place in East Hong Kong

Taikoo Place is it! It is because Taikoo Place is situated in the foothill of Jardine Lookout, Mount Butler and Mount Parker that able to harness the kind energy.

The not so ideal Feng Shui place of all

Western District, Yao Tong are low land area that is unable to sustain kind energy and it is therefore unable to flourish. Tiu Keng Leng would lose its momentum after 2023!

The worst Feng Shui regardless of time

Yao tong is the worst Feng Shui of all in regardless of periods!
Because of the low level of land area.

The Japanese Did Try

Did you know that Japanese Feng Shui Master tried to capture Hong Kong best meridian spot but missed the accuracy during the Second World War?

The Japanese almost destroyed our Kowloon Dragon Trunk

During 2nd world war, the Japanese dug at least 2 trenches with 2 feet wide and almost 7 feet long as water routes for their fighting camp in Tate's Caine Au, and luckily it missed the critical dragon trunk spot that might otherwise have destroyed the whole Kowloon Feng Shui.

No Such thing as 'immediate prosperity'

We need to work hard for living, no free lunch and no short cut! The term immediate prosperity is mistakenly by many for double dragon meridian spot in Yin Feng Shui,

Lamma is not Ideal

I am sorry Lamma! But the Feng Shui and fact says it all; the third biggest island in Hong Kong but less population (approximately 7,000 people). The reason being that the southern Dragon ended in Lamma Island with little or no dragon breath and therefore unlikely to breed more population and most males will migrate! But not a bad place for sight seeing tough!

Apleichau is with thin Dragon Breath

Apleichau is an Island that does not receive well the funnelling of Aberdeen dragon breath and therefore most of the buildings seem to have nice view but not a good Feng Shui place. This is because certain criteria's are not met. Apleichau is nothing special and therefore is creating nothing special.
